WILL ISSUE BONDS FOR 200,000,000 PESOS

Minister of Finance to Ask Congress For Authority-Money Needed to Finance the Present Emergency and to Pay Indemnities-Mexico's Greatest Authority on International Law Appointed Ambassador to the United States.

Mexico City, Feb. 26.—Two hundred million pesos is the amount the minister of finance will probably ask congress to authorize the government to secure by means of bonds for the pacification and the rehabilitation of Mexico.

Troops Pursue Murderous Bands.

Government officials discussed the probability of a difficult campaign in the south, but President Huerta, who was in command of the federals in the campaign which most nearly resulted in the ending of the Zapatistas trouble and which was checked only by Madero's benevolent interference, believes that he knows sufficiently well how to bring the trouble to a speedy end.

The Zapatistas have added to the list of towns they already occupied Amecameca, on the interoceanic reil-way, 20 miles southeast of Mexico City, and three others of minor importance. Raiding continues, with the usual atrocities, but troops are in pursuit of the murderous bands, for whom little rest is promised.

Raoul Madero Also Reported Killed.

To the report that Emilio Madero was killed is added a rumor that his brother Raoul has met the same fate at Torreon. Both these young men were actively allied with Carranza, and, if true, their taking off will doubtless have a deterrent effect on rebel activity in that district.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 26.—James H. MacDonald of New Haven, highway commissioner for the state of Connecticut for many years, will step out of office tomorrow, and do all in his power to help the new commissioner, Charles J. Bennett, of Hartford, learn the ropes. This statement was made by Mr. MacDonald tonight. During the day he had had a number of conferences with Mr. Bennett concerning routine work in the department.

Mr. MacDonald said that he regretted to leave the department until he had been able to complete his annual report for the fiscal year ending December 31. After the conference with Mr. Bennett today, Mr. MacDonald told him that he would gladly render all the assistance possible and that in a few days he would call in all the men in the department to his office and personally introduce them to the new commissioner.

Turkish Volunteers Make Demonstration at Tchatalja Lines-Powers May Mediate in Boundary Dispute.

London, Feb. 26.—The operations of the five armies engaged in the Balkan war have been brought practically to a standstill by the wintry weather, which is accompanied by frequent snowstorms and by the deplorable state of the roads.

The daily official despatches upon which the world is now compelled to rely for its news of occurrences in the theatre of war for the most part rejeat the almost stereotyped statement that "nothing of importance has occurred."

A despatch received from Constantinople, however, goes a little farther, recording that there has been skirmshing on the front of the Tchatalja lines from Constantinople by Turkish volunteers, who, it is claimed, have not with some successes. These must volunteers, who, it is claimed, have met with some successes. These must have been of a minor nature, as the Bulgarians earlier in the week were said to have withdrawn further to the westward. The roads in that neighborhood are in such a frightful condition that the transport columns found it difficult to keep the troops at the front supplied with provisions and ammunition.

Bombarding Adrianople. Bombarding Adrianople.

The news from the neighborhood of the fortress of Adrianople is of an even more conflicting nature. The Bulgarian war department at Sofia says only desultory fighting has been in progress, while a despatch received from a French correspondent inside the city says that since February 3 the Bulgarians have been delivering desperate but ineffective assaults on the fortress and bombarding it cruelly but uselessly.

"I have tried since my connection with the Grand Trunk railway and the Central Vermont," he said, "to carry out what I believe was the policy of the late President Hayes relative to the promotion of the Southern New England railway, but I have not so far been successful in negotiating the Southern New England bonds. Being a New Englander myself, I am well assured that I have left no stone unturned in my search for capital before asking you, as I now do, to place the guarantee of the state of Rhode Island after that of the Central Vermont railway on the bonds of the Southern New England. If this guarantee can be secured I am assured and assure you that there would be no difficulty in securing the necessary funds to complete the Southern New England railway."

The most brain wearying hearing was that before the committee on appropriations, where Senate Chairman McNeil and House Chairman Magee have begun to worry about the Chairman McNell and House Chairman Magee have begun to worry about the state's finances. Something like $18,-000,000 in estimates have been submitted, and if the proposed $5,000,000 for New Haven's harbor and $2,000,-000 for Bridgeport's harbor are reckoned in the total it is $25,000,000 while the state's income is scarcely likely to exceed $6,000,000. If the estimates are pared down to about $11,000,000 as the rock bottom figure the deficit for the next fiscal year, in Senator McNell's opinion, will be over $4,000,-000, while for the next two years it will be close to $9,000,000.

State Insurance Feature Opposed. Mr. Wells for the Manufacturers association opened this afternoon by taking up the state insurance feature in the Federation of Labor bill. He maintained that this would be more expensive to the employe than if the latter came in under the compensation plan. He asked Mr. Danaher to estimate roughly, assuming there were $10,000 employes in the state, how many claims would be made for accident and liability insurance. Mr. Danaher was unable to at this time and Professor Fisher, who was called upon was willing to assume that there would be between 10,000 and 20,000 so Mr. Wells said that if there would be 15,000 claims each year the board of insurance commissioners working eight hours a day for 300 days a year would have to pass a claim at least every five minutes. The board would be called upon to fix compensation on every claim, not on actual injury but on loss the employe would sustain by reason of incapacity to do work for a certain period in the future.

Mr. Wells claimed this was a fatal defect in the Danaher bill.

Professor Fisher thought that all the bills seek to offer an inducement to the unmarried man without dependents who is after work.
The bills provide that in case of injury he would receive perhaps $350 in compensation while $150 would put him under ground in case of death. A married man with dependents would probably receive as high as $2,500. Manufacturers would naturally wish to hire men who have no dependents and the married man with a family would be discriminated against.

Manufacturers Prefer Married Men.

Manufacturers Prefer Married Men. Mr. Barnes did not think Mr. Fisher's idea worth any lengthy discussion because manufacturers are all seeking men with families. The reason Mr. Barnes gave was that married employes are more docile, less likely to strike and in many ways subservient to the employers' will and wishes. He said some married employes are helpless because some manufacturers own the houses and grocery stores. He did not believe the married man had the advantage. The unmarried man he thought was at a disadvantage. Mr. Barnes did not think Mr. Fishadvantage.

THE MILEAGE QUESTION. Proposed Rate Higher Than Commu-tation Rates Now Enjoyed.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 26.—As stated tonight the position of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company is that it must stand on the general principle of treating transportation of legislators as a business proposition and the constitution is not to be disregarded. Dorr Tells of Killing Marsh

SCUFFLE FOLLOWED VICTIM'S INSINUATION.

Overcome by Fear, He Says,

Salem, Mass., Feb. 26.—For half an hour after he had killed George E. Marsh, an aged manufacturer of Lynn, William A. Dorr drove up and down the Lynn boulevard with the hody propped up beside him in the single seat of his runabout. Other automobilists passed him, but though it was light, he attracted no attention.

This is a part of the remarkable story that Dorr told today to a jury before whom he is being tried for Dorr Tells His Story.

The state alleges that Marsh was murdered in order that the defendant might profit indirectly through a trust fund which he thought would go to his laud, Miss Orpha Marsh, with whom he lived in Stockton, Cal., upon the death of Marsh.

Counsel for the defendant set up self defense and Dorr was put on the stand defense and Dorr was put on the stand

Counsel for the defendant set up self defense and Dorr was put on the stand to tell his story. For four and a half hours he was under examination, or cross examination. At first he appeared much improved in health, but as the questioning proceeded he grew perceptibly weaker and his voice at times almost falled him. Several times almost falled him. Several times he seemed about to collapse, but late in the day he recovered surprisingly and he left the witness chair with a quick step and a cheerful demeanor.

Marsh Made Insinuating Remark. Dorr told in detail of his life in Stockton, where he said he was a member of a church choir. His aunt's property was involved, he said, and he believed that it was being mismanaged. believed that it was being mismanaged. He could get no satisfaction from George E. Crane, who looked after the estate, and he decided to come east and see privately George E. Marsh, his aunt's trole.

Arriving in Lynn, he obtained lodgings near Marsh's home and made the ings near Marsh's home and made the acquaintance of the old man. One day he took Marsh out for a drive in his automobile. Marsh made an instructing remark about Miss Marsh, asking Dorr if he was really the woman's nephew. They quarreled and the defendant started to leave the can Marsh tried to stop him and was shot in the scuffle that followed.

Propped Body Up in Seat. On cross examination Dorr told the story practically as he had first related it. Replying the questions of District Attorney Attwill, Dorr said:

"After the shooting I wrapped the body of Marsh in a blanket, put his hat on his head and started toward Lynn. I drove the machine up and down the boulevard several times, undecided what to do. Once I drove nearly up to the Marsh house and then my courage failed and I returned to the boulevard. Several times I had to

"Fear," said Dorr.

Had Body All Night. The witness thought that Marsh died about 5.30 o'clock on the afterneon of April 11, 1912. About 6 c'clock he drove his car near the marshes and put the body on the ground. Then he half carried and half dragged it from the readway and pushed it through a fence. It relied down an embankment, where it was found the next
